W. P. WALTON.

THE Ohio election occurs to-day and while we are not so rash as to predict a democratic victory, seeing that the State has failed us since 1856, the outlook is particularly bright. The democrats have made a noble fight, though contending against strong odds, and if they should win, their victory witl be the grandest on record. In addition to the Blaine hippodrome, the Logan circus and the importation of negrees by the thousands, it is said that $350,-000 has been wrung from the office holders to corrupt the ballot there. That the republicans are greatly alarmed lest this one of their most certain States, should slip from their grasp, shows how desperate is their cause in their own estimation, and how fearful they are that the rascals must go. The result in Ohio to day will go far toward determining the result in Novem- Ind her and will practically settle it in favor of -In South Carolina a marriage license is

In September, 1872, the New York Tel. Times. bune, discussing the Union Pacific Railway jobbing record of James G. Blaine, exid: "It may be nobody's business how he (Blaine) became a millionsire on a Congressman's pay, but it is the business of his constituents and of the country to know how the speaker of the House of Representatives came into this rich railway speculation." The Tribune has changed considerably since then an now supports Blaine, but a great many people in this country are now talking about Blaice precisely as the Tribune talked about him in 1872.

IT is just three weeks to-day till the American people will proclaim at the ballot box, their disguet with republican methods and their contempt for its candidate recking all over with venality and corruption. The signs all point unceringly to the fact that the rascals must go.

THE democrats of West Virginia are talking about a majority of 10,000 to day. The performances of Blaine and Logan in that section of the country seem to have been totally wasted.

In the Island of Alderney importations of other cattle have ever been permitted. The Alderneys have not been kept pure, but are made up mainly of a cross of the Jerseys and the Guernseys on their original stock. They are not so fine as either of these two latter breeds have now become, and are more neeven in their make-up. The term Alderney was applied by mistake by the English to Jersey cows when they first began to import them many years ago, but it is not used now, each breed being distantly
